Reviews

A whole new eBook with a brand new point of view. It is definitely simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the publication. I am just pleased to explain how this is the greatest ebook i have read during my very own daily life and could be he best ebook for possibly.

Excerpt: .Branch Born at New London, Conn., and still living there. WHILE LOVELINESS GOES BY t Sometimes when all the world seems grey and dun And nothing beautiful, a voice will cry, Look out, look out! Angels are drawing nigh! Then my slow burdens leave me one by one, And swiftly does my heart arise and run Even like a child while loveliness goes by--And common folk seem children of the sky, And common things seem shaped of the sun. Oh, pitiful! that I who love them, must So soon perceive their shining garments fade! And slowly, slowly, from my eyes of trust Their flaming banners sink into a shade! While this earth s sunshine seems the golden dust Slow settling from that radiant cavalcade. Anna Hempstead Branch THE TRAIL-MAKERS North and west along the coast among the misty islands, Sullen in the grip of night and smiling in the day: Nunivak and Akutan, with Nome against the highlands, On we drove with plated prow a gleam with frozen spray. Loud we sang adventuring and lustily we jested; Quarreled, fought, and then forgot the taunt, the blow, the jeers; Named a friend and clasped a hand--a compact sealed, attested; Shared tobacco, yarns, and drink, and planned surpassing years. Then---the snow that locked the trail where famine s shadow followed Out across the blinding white and through the stabbing cold, Past tents along the tundra over faces blotched and hollowed; Toothless mouths that babbled foolish songs of...
